 If you were working from home the ATO has allowed a claim of 67c per hour. This method denies the use of claiming actual expenses and is a lot easier to calculate and keep records for if you want to simplify your tax records. To claim under this method, you must keep records of your actual hours spent working at home in a diary. It covers home and mobile internet and phone, electricity/gas, expenses for heating/cooling and lighting, stationery, computer consumables.
